• More on the Brighton Wolves

Houston-area boys high school basketball teams continue to expand their horizons. Just two weeks after Houston vs. the Nation, Alvin High School will take on the world.

Well, a part of it, anyway.

The Yellowjackets will host the Brighton Wolves, a boys high school team from Melbourne, Australia, on Tuesday..

Along with playing games against the Wolves at 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., Alvin will host the team all day at the school, which has dubbed Tuesday to be "Australia Day."

"This isn't just about basketball," Alvin coach Eric Aaron said. "It's about a cultural exchange. We are using basketball to be able to do that."

Brighton won't just make a stop in Alvin. The Wolves played in Austin on Monday and will swing by Dallas before heading home.

"I think it's a really neat thing for those boys to come to another country and spend time with kids their age that have a common interest," Aaron said. "I think we will have a couple of competitive games and I think it will be a lot of fun for everyone involved."

"We are really looking forward to having them here."
